ADDRESS

ADDRESS TO THE PUBLIC.

A New Edition of Shakſpeare, and an Edition of ſo ſingular a Form as the preſent, in which all his Plays are comprehended in One Volume, will perhaps appear ſurpriſing to many Readers; but, upon a little Reflection, their Surpriſe will, the Editor doubts not, be converted into Approbation.

Much as Shakſpeare has been read of late Years, and largely as the Admiration and Study of him have been extended, there are ſtill a numerous Claſs of Men to whom he is very imperfectly known. Many of the middling and lower Ranks of the Inhabitants of this Country are either not acquainted with him at all, excepting by Name, or have only ſeen a few of his Plays, which have accidentally fallen in their Way. It is to ſupply the Wants of theſe Perſons that the preſent Edition is principally undertaken; and it cannot fail of becoming to them a perpetual Source of Entertainment and Inſtruction.

But the Inſtruction that may be drawn from Shakſpeare is equal to the Entertainment which his Writings afford. He is the greateſt Maſter of Human Nature, and of Human Life, that perhaps ever exiſted; ſo that we cannot peruſe his Works without having our Underſtandings conſiderably enlarged. To promote, therefore, the Knowledge of him is to contribute to general Improvement.

Nor is the Utility of the preſent Publication confined to Perſons of the Rank already deſcribed; it will be found ſerviceable even to thoſe whoſe Situation in Life hath enabled them to purchaſe all the expenſive Editions of our great Dramatiſt. The Book now offered to the Public may commodiouſly be taken into a Coach or a Poſt-chaiſe, for Amuſement in a Journey. It is a Compendium, not an Abridgment, of the nobleſt of our Poets, and a Library in a ſingle Volume.

The Editor hath endeavoured to give all the Perfection to this Work which the Nature of it will admit. The Account of his Life, which is taken from Rowe, and his Laſt Will, in reality comprehend almoſt every Thing that is known with regard to the perſonal Hiſtory of Shakſpeare.

The

The Notes which are ſubjoined are ſuch as were neceſſary for the Purpoſe of illuſtrating and explaining obſolete Words, unuſual Phraſes, old Cuſtoms, and obſcure or diſtant Alluſions. In ſhort, it has been the Editor's Aim to omit nothing which may ſerve to render Shakſpeare intelligible to every Capacity, and to every Claſs of Readers.

Gentlemen in the Country finding a Difficulty in procuring the above valuable Work, by directing a Line to Mr. Stockdale, oppoſite Burlington-houſe, Piccadilly, (appointing the Payment thereof in London) ſhall have it immediately forwarded (Carriage paid) to any Part of Great Britain.
